DCI WEEKLY

OFFICE OF PUBLIC AFFAIRS

This week the media group and I have been primarily involved in matters pertaining to the Ronald Rewald case. In addition to meeting with ABC senior officials in New York with Stan Sporkin, we have issued a statement to the wire services, backgrounded press and TV journalists (who are all on our side but won't do much about it), and written a formal letter to ABC setting forth the Agency's position on the network's Rewald series and setting the stage for the legal action against ABC that we will be bringing before the FCC. We have succeeded in getting ABC's attention by nicking them through the press and, for whatever it is worth, the Washington journalistic fraternity is laughing at ABC, some of them directly to ABC.

Visits and Appearances

Arrangements and the DCI's West Coast trip book were completed.

We continue to receive numerous requests for DCI appearances.

Presentations

[redacted] made a presentation to the National Security Course at the University of Miami. 25X1

Other briefings that were given were:

--NSA analysts

--Air Force Training Course

[redacted] 25X1

--DIA Junior Officers Course

--DI recruiters

--Foreign Technology Transfer Division from Wright-Patterson Air Force Base

Academic Relations

We completed the 1 October quarterly update of professional and technical meetings and they were distributed throughout the Agency--183 and 123 copies, respectively.

We received a request this week through OLL from Senator Dodd's office to brief a group of 20 students from Pace University on Capitol Hill. [redacted] 25X1

[redacted] will handle the briefing.

Publications Review Board

ILLEGIB

[redacted] has submitted several rewritten chapters of his book for prepublication review. He said that his publisher is planning a spring 1985 publishing date. On 25 September he submitted and had approved an article on the folly of the U.S. presence in Lebanon which led to the recent Beirut bombing. 25X1
